MISCELLANEOUS ITEMS.

The Senate passed the bill making the usual appropriations for the support of the army, and tacked on as an amendment a modification of the recently defeated bill to reduce the army. One of the principal changes is the restoration of the old pay roll, so that the salaries of Generals Sherman and Sheridan remain untouched. The provisions for retiring and mustering out officers are the same as heretofore, which will make the maximum of the army a year hence about thirty thousand men, and cut down the expenses of the military establishment four millions of dollars a year.

The finance committee appointed by Mayor Emery, of Washington city, to ascertain the floating indebtedness of the city, concluded their labors yesterday, and report that aside from about one million increase of the funded debt during the two years Mr. Sayles J. Bowen was mayor, the outstanding claims amount to $816,390. During the same term the taxation of the city was increased about 50 per cent, and the assessment of real estate about 90 per cent, whereby the revenues were enormously augmented.

The Fisk-Vanderbilt War had a curious episode. When the New York Central put down freight of cattle to $1 per carload to spite the Erie, Fisk sent all his own private Erie freight over Vanderbilt's line, so that 230 cars were running on this per day, while only thirty passed over the other. About the middle of last week Vanderbilt discovered the trick of his antagonist, and put his freight up again to $40.

On Wednesday last Commodore Robert Ritchie died in Philadelphia, where he was born, and where he has always resided when not on duty elsewhere. His age was about seventy. He entered the navy as a midshipman in 1814, and his first voyage was in the sloop of war John Adams, which that year took to Europe the commissioners to negotiate the treaty of Ghent.

In various parts of England the surface of the country has undergone great changes in the last hundred years. A new county is being reclaimed from the sea on the coast of Norfolk and Lincolnshire. One consequence of driving away the water is that the land shrinks. In Lynn many of the houses are "settling," the bridges are weakened, and the Corn Exchange is "sliding away from its front."

It is stated that the Chesapeake and Ohio railroad have purchased a large tract of land on the river side, at the point of intersection of the Guyanote river with the Ohio, and extending down four miles. Upon this they will lay out a town, to be named Huntington, after the President of the road. The new bridge across the Ohio will be built there, and leading capitalists have taken hold of the enterprise.

The exhibition of fans, now open in London, is part of a scheme for the instruction of women in art. To promote this object the government department of science and art offered prizes in competition for fans painted by the students in the female schools of art, in 1868, in 1869, and again in 1870. The French, however, under the patronage of the Empress, excel in fans.

Maulius Case, living near North Bend, Boone county, Ky., made a desperate attempt to kill Mrs. William Hodges, of the same place, last Tuesday. He fired a revolver three times, the balls passing through her dress; then placed the pistol to her forehead, when it snapped. Case was a discarded lover of Mrs. Hodges, but both parties were since married. Case has been arrested.

Claimants to the property located at the corner of Broadway and Canal streets, New York, valued at $200,000, have turned up in a Georgia village. They say one of their ancestors gave a lease on this land for one hundred years, which time has just expired. The tenants on the property have no intention as yet of moving.

Advices from North Adams, Mass., state that matters are settling down there, excitement subsiding, Crispins organizing their co-operative factory with $10,000 capital from the grand lodge, and Chinese working in rapidly, in the bottoming room of Mr. Sampson's factory, where sixteen "teams" are now at work, and are not disturbed.

A black man, near Laurel, Delaware, a few days ago, committed a horrid crime upon the person of a highly respectable married lady. He was arrested, and confessed, adding that he had been guilty of several similar deeds, the last few months. He will be hung or lynched.

The Rochester (N. Y.) Express, Radical, comes out squarely in favor of sending Fred Douglass to succeed Judge Davis in Congress. It says that Douglass is the ablest and most widely known public man in his congressional district.

The travel to Europe continues active. The four or five steamers sailing from New York on Saturday carried some four hundred cabin passengers.

SUEZ CANAL.—At a dinner recently given, in Liverpool, to M. de Lesseps, the engineer of the Suez Canal, he said that he remembered, when he was in Liverpool in 1857, saying that England more than any country in the Suez Canal. As an instance of the advantage which Liverpool derived from the opening of the canal he stated that a Liverpool vessel had recently been chartered to sail from Hong Kong to Odessa, carrying tea at eight pounds sterling per ton. This was the commencement of a revolution in the Russian tea trade, and an important and tangible advantage would be gained by Liverpool.
